No parking on the deck!

An unknown driver recently tried to reverse park their vehicle onto the rear deck of the Hall. Luckily only the railing was damaged and it was repaired with the help of some sturdy bolts. Also, another equally robust driver took out our "Private Parking" post on the driveway. Also fixed! These incidents point to the continuing problem of 'illegal' parking, particularly during productions when the carpark can become quite congested. Hence, a new sign is being planned, and it is hoped this will ease the situation where restaurant or Community Centre patrons mistakenly choose our carpark and sometimes get blocked in.....

It is great to be back in leafy Warrandyte after three and a half weeks in Crete and Greece.

We saw wonderful ancient pots, some as old as 1300 BC, and yet so similar to those we are still making in the Studio – same oxide decorations and designs.

Fourth term begins October 8th and 9th.

May I remind potters that fees are due on these days.

Love from us to Joan who is out of hospital and staying with her daughter, Sue.

Congratulations to our up and coming young Actors for their production "Inspector Hound" - it was most enjoyable.

No news from the Painters as we are still on term break.

We will be returning on the 9th October, venue to be advised.

Hello lovers of fine theatre,

Wow! the 'youngies' in the Youth Theatre did us all proud and rattled off their lines like seasoned professionals. Thanks to you we had great attendances and four fantastic nights of well-directed, well-acted theatre. We must be doing something right as we had a school from NSW send students to watch and learn, as part of their studies. We are really in the big league now.

Moving on, stage is cleared and pallet is bare for the 39 Steppers to organise sets, play with props and of course learn their lines. While Adrian and myself are away Alan Cornell is holding down the fort and exercising his mental muscle to pull it together. Cast are great and now we have a full compliment of crew as well. Will keep you posted on the next chapter of the WTC.

Cheers,

Powerful viewing

Actors rehearsing for “The 39 Steps “ recently took a walk on to the Osborne Road Peninsula (in the Warrandyte State Park).

They were told that there were 2 adults and 2 baby powerful owls clearly visible during the day in a particular tree, which they found pretty easily.

They hope that you can get a chance to see them as well. Details from David Tynan.

Above is a shot of the babies - they stood very still for this pic ...

President Jack loved the show!

“Lea and I went to opening night expecting a mixed bag from the WYT - Youth theatre is often a combination of talent and enthusiasm. This night was a cracker. I agree with everything Daryll Mitchell has said about this and would like to add that there were some outstanding talents on show during “The Real Inspector Hound”. Hope you got a ticket to watch some excellent theatre - youth or not it was a great night. Directed with unobtrusive skill by David Tynan and Lou Phelan, and very ably produced by Nieta Manser”

Jack also loved The Hawks’ recent Grand Final win, and flew away smiling for a three week European holiday!
